

Any business wishing to contact a former customer can easily do so via a mailing. Opening this loop-hole will only allow more degenerates selling ocean property in AZ to further annoy and disrupt family time during dinner and early evening hours. Granted there will be some legit businesses looking for a 1-on-1 follow-up or such who get screwed a bit, but unfortunately this is the price for to be paid for not otherwise severely punishing the multiple of mass marketing losers out there. If we really wanted to be fair and just we would deal directly with those people with huge fines and deter such practices, but instead we have taken a more passive route to protect civilian quality of life.
